I-2 In Case of Emergency (Fire, Sudden Sickness and Crime)

1. Fire (☎119 • English Available)

In the event of fire, please notify your neighbors immediately. If there is a fire alarm (or emergency bell) inside the building, please press the button immediately. Dial 119, remain calm, and tell them you have discovered a fire and your current location. When fire or smoke spreads rapidly, please evacuate to a safe place immediately.

Examples in Japanese

“Kajidesu. XX(address) no △△(name) desu.”:

“Fire incident. I’m △△(name) at XX(address)”

“XX(address) no △△(name) desuga, tonari ga kaji desu.”:

“I’m △△(name) at XX(address). There is a fire next door.”

2. Sudden Illness & Injury etc. (☎119 • English Available)

When you are ill or injured and unable to go to hospital without assistance, you can call an ambulance by dialing 119. In such cases the telephone and ambulance costs are free, but you are responsible for the medical fee. The ambulance crew judges the best hospital depending on your symptoms, where you are and what time you have called, so they might not be able to take you to your preferred hospital.

If you mistakenly swallow medicine or poison, go to the hospital immediately with the instruction sheet for the substance you have taken, or call an ambulance. If you call “119”, they will advise you on what to do.

(Ambulance Services Guide for inbound visitors to Japan)

Examples in Japanese

“Kyuukyuusha o onegaishimasu. XX (address) no △△ (name) desu.”

“Ambulance please. I’m △△ (name) at XX (address).”

“XX (address) no △△ (name) desuga, □□ o kega shimashita.”:

“I’m △△ (name) at XX (address). I hurt my □□.”

“XX (address) no △△ (name) desuga, □□ ga itakute ugoke masen.”:

“I’m △△ (name) at XX (address). I can’t move because of pain in my □□.”

“XX (address) no △△ (name) desu. Chi ga dete imasu.”:

“I’m △△ (name) at XX (address). I’m bleeding”

3. Crime Victim (☎110 • English Available)

If you are a victim of or a witness to a crime, dial 110 to contact police. If you have had your house or office broken into, keep the crime scene untouched and dial 110.

Examples in Japanese

“Tasukete Kudasai.”: “Help”

“Dorobou desu.”: “Thief!”

“Suri ni ai mashita.”: “Somebody pickpocketed me.”

“Nagurare mashita.”: “Somebody hit me.”

The “Anti-stalking Act” is in place to prevent stalking activities, such as someone hovering around you, waiting to ambush you, demanding to meet or date you, making obscene comments, or making anonymous calls. If you are a victim of such harassment, please contact the police.

【Stalker Dial 110, Osaka Prefectural Police Headquarters】

☎ 06-6937-2110

Domestic Violence from your spouse or partner is prohibited by law. The Osaka Prefectural Center for Women provides temporary sheltering service for victims and domestic violence consulting.

4. Phoning for Assistance

From a public phone, you can dial 110 or 119 free of charge. Pick up the receiver, and then press the red button on the front part of the phone. (Some phones have different calling procedures)

You can also call from a cell phone. Please press 119 or 110. Please make sure to tell the operator where you are and your cell phone number.

5. Body Parts

I-3 Precaution against Natural Disasters

1. Typhoons

Typhoons accompanied by devastating rain and storms occur frequently from July to October throughout Japan.

Possible Damage

- Injuries caused by objects displaced by wind.
- Landslides or floods due to heavy rain.
- Houses submerged or inundated.
- Power failures.
- The water supply may be cut to buildings where tap water is provided by means of electric water pumps (electric motor).

Weather forecasts help us anticipate coming typhoons, so please pay attention to them.

Prepare for Typhoons

- Please pay attention to weather forecasts from the radio, TV and internet to learn when and where typhoons will pass through.
- When rain or wind intensify, stay indoors.
- Prepare an emergency bag containing drinking water, dried foods, a flashlight, a portable radio and other emergency goods.
- Please check for the designated evacuation site in your neighborhood in advance.

2. Earthquakes

Compared to other countries, earthquakes happen quite often in Japan. When an earthquake occurs, the ground trembles, causing damage such as furniture toppling over and buildings collapsing. In some cases, it can trigger a tsunami (tidal wave) as well.

When an Earthquake Occurs

1. If you are indoors · ·

- Take cover underneath a table to protect yourself from the falling objects.
 - When the shaking stops, turn off your gas stove and heater, and then turn off the gas at the gas main.
 - Open a door to the outside to secure an exit to evacuate.
 - Do not use elevators.

2. If you are outside · ·

Protect your head against falling objects. Don't stay near concrete-block walls or under roof overhangs. Evacuate to a safe place such as an open space with no buildings standing nearby.

3. If you are driving a car · ·

Do not panic and after confirming your personal safety, slowly pull over to the side of the road. Even after the shaking stops, please remain cautious because aftershocks might occur.

Precautions to take

- Please attach metal fittings or a chain to heavy furniture or bookshelves to prevent them from falling over.
- Do not put fragile things such as a vase on a shelf or at the head of your bed.
- Prepare a bag containing emergency goods such as drinking water, dried foods, a flashlight and a portable radio.

II Health and Medical Care

II-1 Medical Care (Use of medical institutions)

1. Medical Care in Japan

Japan has a high standard of medical care, but in general doctors will not explain treatments or medicines in detail. If you need such information, please do not hesitate to ask the doctor. The duration of medical examinations and explanations tends to be relatively brief.

Normally, dentists work on an appointment basis, but doctors operate on a first-come-first-served basis, so expect to wait. Compared to other countries, in general doctors in Japan are less willing to prescribe painkillers.

2. Medical Institutions

Types

- Clinic, Doctor's Office
- Hospital (well equipped facilities for examination and admission.)

When you cannot identify the sickness you suffer from or have minor symptoms, it is best to go to a clinic to seek medical advice and instruction.

Opening Hours

- Some hospitals are open only in the morning.
- Most clinics are open in the morning and afternoon, but some are closed on certain weekday afternoons.

Language

Most doctors understand simple English, but documents such as medical questionnaires are generally only available in Japanese. If you do not understand Japanese, it is recommended to visit with someone who understands Japanese.

Multilingual Medical Questionnaire: <https://www.kifijp.org/medical/> (International Community Hearty Konandai/Kanagawa International Foundation)

Procedures to See a Doctor

- Reception: You need to present your health insurance card to the receptionist of the medical institution. Then, please fill in your symptoms and medical history on the medical questionnaire. After that, wait until called.
- Examination: You will be examined in a doctor's office, and will receive medical checks and treatment if deemed necessary.
- Cashier: If you receive medicine, please wait until called to pay at the cashier. Recently, an increasing number of facilities introduced a system of writing prescriptions and having patients purchase medication at an external pharmacy.

3. Hospital Admission

Hospitals in Japan have private, twin and standard rooms (for about 4 to 6 people) for inpatients. You will need to bear some of the costs for private and twin rooms, since they are not completely covered by insurance.

To ensure the best possible treatment, the duration of the hospital stay is generally longer here than in many other countries

Complete nursing care is provided in most large hospitals, but if this is not the case, you may be required to arrange a person for attendant care. In such cases, the cost for the attendant is covered by health insurance.

4. Hospitals with Foreign Language Speaking Staff

Please refer to the information provided on the Osaka Medical Facilities Information System website, for details regarding hospitals with foreign language speaking staff. You can also contact the Osaka Information Service for Foreign Residents, or the AMDA (Association of Medical Doctors of Asia) International Medical Information Center (Appendix IX-2)

Osaka Medical Facilities Information System:

URL https://www.mfis.pref.osaka.jp/apqq/qg/men/pwtpmenu01.aspx

5. Injury or Sickness at Night or during Holidays

If you get injured or sick at night or during holidays, report to a major hospital's emergency clinic. However, foreign language speaking staff will likely be unavailable, so if you are not fluent in Japanese, be sure to take somebody who understands Japanese with you. (Appendix IX-3)

6. Medicine

Medicines roughly fall into two categories. First is prescription medicine which is available by the doctor's prescription from a clinic or a hospital. Pharmacists will prepare the medicine according to the prescription. Second is over-the-counter drugs which you can buy at a drugstore or a pharmacy. They are categorized according to their active pharmaceutical ingredient.

Recently, you have an option to choose the generic version of a drug. It is a pharmaceutical drug that is sold after the original patent has expired, but contains the same chemical substance and is as safe as the original drug. Generic drugs are cheaper than the original drugs.

II-2 Medical Insurance (National Health Insurance, Nursing Care Insurance and others)

1. Medical Insurance in Japan

In Japan, there are the following two main types of medical insurance. The law requires you to be a policyholder of either one. In Japan, medical fees are relatively high, but you will be able to pay less after enrolling in the insurance. If you are staying in Japan for longer than three months and have registered as a resident, you are eligible to apply for National Health Insurance.

People aged 75 or over are required to apply for “Latter-Stage Elderly Healthcare Insurance.”
(For details, please refer to Section 3 below: Latter-Stage Elderly Healthcare Insurance)

2. National Health Insurance

People covered by National Health Insurance

* If you are from a country with a reciprocal Social Security Agreement with Japan including medical insurance, and if you show proof of being covered by the social security service in your country, you will be exempt from National Health Insurance in Japan.

* “Designated Activities” visa holders, those who are staying in Japan for the purpose of receiving health care or taking care of such a person are exempt.

* Those whose status is “Short-term Stay” or “Diplomat” are also exempt.

(1) Application Procedure

- When to apply:
When you move to Japan, change your residential address, when a child is born, or if you have left the Social Insurance System, etc.
- Necessary documents:
Residence Card
(Even if you are not eligible to register as a resident, you may still apply for National Health Insurance if you have documentation to prove that you will stay in Japan for three months or longer.)

(2) Benefits for the Insured (services available to policyholders)

For details such as benefits and procedures, please contact the relevant division of your municipality. (Appendix IX-1)

- Self-Pay Portion of Medical Fee:
Those covered by National Health Insurance must pay 30% of the entire cost for the health care provided (20% for preschool children or elderly people aged between 70 and 74 (10% for those born before April 1, 1944, in accordance with government special measures. Those whose income exceeds a certain level must pay 30% of the total cost regardless of their age)). If hospitalized, you will need to pay for the meals served on your own. Please note that some miscellaneous costs involved in hospitalization such as extra room charge may not be covered by the insurance.
- High-Cost Medical Care Benefits:
If a person's self-pay portion for a month exceeds a specified amount, the excess amount will be reimbursed afterwards.
- Lump-Sum Allowance for Childbirth:
When an insured woman gives birth, the head of her family will receive an allowance to cover a portion of the costs incurred in childbirth.
- Funeral Expenses:
When an insured person has died, a portion of the funeral costs will be paid to a person who holds the deceased person's funeral.
- Specified Illness:
The National Health Insurance program also offers financial assistance for the treatment of specified illnesses.

(3) Insurance Premiums (Tax)

Insurance premiums are calculated based on the structure of your family and your income for the previous year. You will be notified about your premiums by your city office. For details, please inquire at your local municipality from which your insurance is issued. (Appendix IX-1)

Premiums will be charged at certain times of the year. After you receive a payment slip for your premium in the mail, please pay at the public office in your municipality, a nearby financial institution (bank) or convenience store. Payments may be automatically deducted from your bank or post office savings account if you prefer. Inquire at your municipal office for further details.

Also, in principle, your premium will be directly deducted from pension benefits received by the head of your family, if a) all insured in your household are aged 65 or over, b) the head of your family receives a pension of 15,000 or more per month, and c) the combined amount of your Nursing Care and National Health Insurance premiums is less than half of the pension benefits of that of the head of your family.

In the event that you are unable to pay premiums temporarily because you have lost your job or suffered from a natural disaster, you may apply for a premium reduction or exemption program. Inquire at your municipal office for details.

If you are injured by a third party in a traffic accident or other incidents, normally the said third party is obliged to pay your treatment costs. However, if you report it, it can be covered by National Health Insurance. Subsequent to the treatment, the insurer might claim compensation for the injury against the person who caused the accident. Therefore, it is recommended that you consult with someone in your municipal office if a settlement with the offender has been reached. (Appendix IX-1)

From April 2018, the Osaka Prefectural Government has joined municipal governments in administering the National Health Insurance scheme. Insurance premium rates and reduction measures, which used to vary from city to city, will be fully standardized within Osaka Prefecture by the end of the six-year-long transitional period. During this transitional period, however, some discrepancies still remain. For details, please inquire at your municipal office.

3. Latter-Stage Elderly Healthcare Insurance System

In Japan, the medical insurance for people who have reached 75 years of age is terminated and automatically switched to the Latter-Stage Elderly Healthcare Insurance. Foreign residents aged 75 or over are enrolled in the system automatically when they are permitted to stay in Japan for three months or longer and registered as such. However, even those without a residence card may apply for the system if deemed to be staying in Japan for over three months. (However, they will not be automatically registered in the Latter-Stage Elderly Healthcare Insurance System. Please consult with the Latter-Stage Elderly Healthcare Insurance division of your municipal office.)

(Requirements for the eligibility for Latter-Stage Elderly Healthcare Insurance are the same as that for National Health Insurance. For details see Section 2. National Health Insurance.)

① Application Procedure

- No specific action is required. During the month prior to your 75th birthday, you will receive an insurance card sent from the Osaka Prefectural Association of Medical Care Services for Senior Citizens (Kouiki Rengou)
- Those aged 65 to 74 are also eligible to be covered by the system if they are recognized as suffering from specified disorders after submitting an application. Please submit the application to the division in charge of the medical services for latter-stage elderly people in your municipality.

(2) Benefits for the Insured (the services policyholders receive)

- Self-Pay Portion of Medical Fees:
Those with Latter-Stage Elderly Healthcare Insurance must pay 10% of the entire cost for the health care provided: (30% if they earn a certain amount of money.) Please note that some miscellaneous costs accompanying hospitalization might not be covered by insurance.
- High-Cost Medical Care Benefit:
If a person's self-pay portion exceeds a specified amount in one month, the excess amount will be reimbursed.
- Funeral Expenses:
When an insured person has died, a portion of the funeral costs will be paid.
- Medical Aid:
The cost of the medical treatment for specified diseases may be covered by public funds (your fees will be reduced).
- Latter-Stage Elderly Healthcare Insurance also offers financial assistance for health care costs for specified illnesses (such as reduction of payments.)
Please claim funeral expenses or financial assistance for health care at your municipal office.

(3) Premiums

Each prefecture calculates premiums independently. Your premium differs based on the structure of your family and your income for the previous year. If you receive a pension of 15,000 yen or more per month and the amount of the premium for Nursing Care Insurance and Health Insurance combined is still less than half of the amount received as pension, the premium will be deducted from your pension. Otherwise, an invoice for payment is sent to you by post, to be paid at the municipal office or a nearby financial institution. In the event you are temporarily unable to pay premiums because you have lost your job or suffered from a natural disaster, you may apply for a premium reduction or exemption program. Inquire at your municipal office for details. (Appendix IX-1)

4. Nursing Care Insurance (Kaigo Hoken)

In Japan, to elderly people suffering from age-related physical conditions, elderly nursing care services are offered through the Nursing Care Insurance by the local municipality.

(1) People who are covered:

Residents in Japan aged 65 or older (Insured Category No.1), and those aged 40 to 64 who are covered by public medical insurance (Insured Category No.2) are eligible for Nursing Care Insurance (as a policyholder). Foreign residents are also covered by Nursing Care Insurance unless they correspond to one of the following categories:

1. Residents with short-term visas.
2. Those who have a residential status of less than three months, but are regarded as likely to stay beyond three months.
3. Those who have official visas (such as diplomats, consulate staff, members of the U.S. military, etc.)
4. Those whose visa has expired.

(2) People who can use the service:

○ Those who are 65 years old or over (Insured Category No.1) who:

- Need constant nursing care due to being bedridden and/or suffering from dementia.

Approval by the municipal government is required for such service.

- Those who do not need constant nursing care, but need support for regular, daily activities such as dressing. Such persons must be approved by the municipal government as needing such care (the condition of Support Necessary).

○ Those who are 40 to 64 years old, covered by medical insurance (Insured Category No. 2) and fall into the category of Nursing Care Necessary or Support Necessary due to one of 16 designated types of illnesses caused by aging, including late-middle-age dementia and cerebrovascular disease, and any person already approved by the municipal government as a person in a condition of Nursing Care Necessary or Support Necessary.

(3) Available services:

○ Home Care Services (including services designated for those who do not fulfill the conditions for Nursing Care Necessary, but are in the condition of Support Necessary.)

- Care worker's visit (Home Help Service): a care worker visits your home to support daily activities or provide physical nursing care.
- Nurse visits you at home: a nurse visits your home and examines/supervises your condition or assists treatment.
- Visit to a nursing home (Day Service): Visits to a day-service center for baths, (some) meals and functional training.
- Short-term nursing care at a nursing home.
- Nursing-care for residential care in designated facilities and other care.

○ Service at Facilities

- Welfare Facilities Offering Nursing Care for Elderly Citizens (Special Nursing Home): facilities for people who need constant nursing care and are unable to live at home (those categorized as "Level 3 or above Support Necessary" in principle). To provide a residence for such people, support for daily life, rehabilitation and nursing.
- Health Facilities Offering Nursing Care for Elderly Citizens: Facilities for people in need of functional training or nursing care with hope of recuperation and returning home.
- Medical Treatment Type Nursing Care Facilities: facilities for patients needing long-term treatment: to provide medical services such as nursing or functional training.
- Nursing and medical care institutions: facilities that accommodate people requiring long-term nursing and medical care to provide them with constant medical management and routine support for daily life.

※People in the "Support Necessary" category cannot use the long-term services offered at the facilities.

○ Community-Based Services (including preventive services for people in the "Support Necessary" category)

- (4) How to pay for insurance:
- People aged 65 and over (Insured Category No.1):
 - For those who receive a pension ¥15,000 or more per month (including their retirement pension), insurance payments are deducted from the pension. Others pay directly to the municipal government by bank transfer, etc.
 - People aged from 40 to 64 with public medical insurance (Insured Category No.2):
 - The insurance payment is added to the medical insurance payment.
- (5) Payment for Using these Services
- When receiving services from the Nursing Care Insurance system, the patient basically pays 10% or 20% of the cost, depending on their income. When the patient receives care at a facility, they must pay for accommodation and meals on top of the 10%.
 - However, to prevent the monthly payments from becoming unbearable, there are maximum monthly limits for self-payment (such as expenses for large lump-sum payments for nursing care services). In particular, for people with lower incomes, the maximum monthly payment limit as well as accommodation and meal payments are set lower.
- (6) Consultation Offices at Municipal Government Offices
For further information regarding the application of nursing care insurance and available services, please consult with the responsible division at your municipal government office.
(Appendix IX-1)

II-3 Health Management

In Japan, local governments or companies arrange various kinds of health checks to help people prevent diseases or identify them in their early stages. Most of the checks are free or very low cost. Considering the overall cost, it is beneficial for you to prevent a disease or identify it at an early stage, so please make use of such services.

1. Public Health Center (Hokenjo)

To preserve or improve people's health, public health centers offer specialized services in the prefectures. Screening days differ as per the public health centers' schedules, so please inquire first before visiting (Appendix IX-3)

- Screening for infectious diseases (such as HIV, sexually transmitted diseases, tuberculosis and viral hepatitis) and other diseases
- Support and consultation for maternity and child health care
- Support and consultation for incurable diseases
- Consultation for mental health

2. Municipal Medical Health Center (Medical Care and Health)

Municipal Medical Health Centers provide accessible health services for local residents such as examinations for infants, vaccinations, various types of cancer screenings and medical checkups for adults. You can receive check-ups at health centers or certain medical institutions that provide regular screenings and check-ups. Systems differ with respect to municipality, so for details, please contact a municipal health center in your area. (Appendix IX-3)

III Daily Life and Housing

III-1 Looking for Housing

1. Applying for Prefectural Housing

Applications for Osaka Prefectural Housing are accepted at specified periods several times a year. Each time, new brochures are issued and distributed at city halls and ward offices in Osaka Prefecture, information plazas for prefectural residents, authorized management offices, Osaka Prefectural Government and other places. Tenants are determined by lottery and must meet certain criteria. Foreign nationals who meet all of the following conditions can apply for prefectural housing:

- ① Earning the income level that matches the criteria for application.
- ② Currently having difficulty finding housing.
- ③ Living or working in Osaka Prefecture. (Or plan to work within the prefecture)
- ④ Completed their resident registration.

Osaka Prefectural Public Housing Office:

URL https://www.pref.osaka.lg.jp/s_jutaku/eiei/ (Japanese Only)

2. Other Public Housing

City Housing	Housing provided by the city for households whose earnings are lower than the threshold
Public Rental Property Specified by Osaka Prefecture	Housing directly provided by Osaka Prefecture for those with middle-range incomes. https://www.pref.osaka.lg.jp/jutaku_kikaku/boshujigyo/index.html
Osaka Prefecture Public Company Rental Housing	Housing managed by Osaka Prefecture Public Company for people with middle-range incomes ☎ 06-6203-5454
UR Housing	Housing built and managed by the Urban Renaissance Agency for people with middle-range incomes ☎ 06-6968-1717

3. Looking for Private Housing

When you are looking for private housing, clarify your needs, including rent, deposit, location, size of housing and other conditions. Real estate agents (who can show you rental houses and apartment rooms) in the area where you plan to reside can present you choices in rental housing. You can also use real estate agencies to appraise market value to help clarify your desired range and be informed of general housing costs. Also, you can research housing information magazines. Other helpful resources include classified advertisements for housing on foreign language online sites that offer job and housing information to foreigners living in Japan.

After you decide on the type of housing you will rent, you need to make a rental agreement (contract to lease an apartment room or other housing) at the real estate agent's office. On such rental agreements, not only the rent, fee for communal services, and deposits, but also cautions for when you vacate the residence, whether you can have pets, and other rules should be clear. Therefore, only sign an agreement after you fully understand the content. It is important to avoid future problems by clarifying when you have to notify your real estate agency about the termination of the contract, the amount they will retain from the deposit money you pay (upfront), and breakdown of the usage amount subtracted from the deposit.

There is also the Osaka Anshin Housing Promotion Council that provides useful information to assist with your house hunt.

URL <https://www.osaka-anshin.com/>

○ Money Required When Making a Housing Lease Contract

Rent	Monthly rent. You need to pay the rent of the following month. Therefore, you need to pay rent for two months up-front.
Maintenance Fee (for apartments)	Residents pay monthly to cover the costs of the cleaning and maintenance of communal spaces
Deposit (partially refundable)	When a tenant makes a contract, leasee pays deposits to guarantee paying the rent to the landlord (the owner of the property). In the Kansai area, average deposits are equivalent to about a month to 3 months rent, and they are used for house maintenance or other purposes. When a tenant moves out, typically 30% to 50% of the deposit money is subtracted from the refund.
Key Money	This is a non-refundable gratuity payment to the landlord.
Commission	Commission you pay to the real estate agent.

III-2 Moving Out and Leaving Japan

1. Procedures at Your Old Residence Before Moving

When you move out of a rented property, you must pay the water, gas and electricity utility bills. Call each utility company to notify them of your planned vacancy date and ask them for a fee settlement. Additionally, submit a notice of vacancy to the post office nearest your residence, so that all incoming mail will be transferred to your new address - free of charge for the entire following year.

If you move to a place in the same municipality, please hand in a "Notification of change of address" to your local government administration office. If you move to a place governed by a different municipality to that of your prior residence, please hand in a "Moving-out Notice" to your local municipality, receive a "Notice of Change of Address," and submit a "Notice of Ineligibility" to the National Health Insurance division in the ward office or town/city hall and return your insurance card to the division.

2. After Moving into a New Residence

Contact the gas and electricity companies. The gas company will send a person to open the gas line for the house, and will require a resident to observe this. Generally, if you turn the breaker on, the electricity becomes available for use, but you must notify the electricity company as soon as possible when you start using electricity. Water systems are different in each rental house/apartment, so ask the landlord.

Submit a "Moving-in Notice" at the local municipal office of your new residence within 14 days after your move. If you are insured by National Health Insurance, after notifying the relevant authorities at the town/city hall in your new municipality of the transfer of your address, apply for insurance in your new municipality.

If you have a driver's license, have your address changed at your nearby police station.

3. When You Leave Japan

- ① Settle all bills accruing from your rented housing. Pay utility bills for gas, electricity, water, and domestic and international phone calls.
- ② If you are leaving Japan in the middle of the fiscal year, it is necessary to settle any due taxes. With regards to the residential tax, pay the entire amount for the fiscal year at your municipal office. Local taxes are calculated based on the previous year's income, so you need to pay the tax even if you will not remain in Japan for the full fiscal year.
- ③ Regarding income tax, you can still receive a refund after filing your final income tax return, if you arrange for a person to manage your tax payment and report to the tax office. Or, file a tentative income tax return and pay all unpaid income tax for the year before you leave Japan.
- ④ Submit a Notification of Change of Address (Abroad) at your local municipal office.
- ⑤ Regarding National Health Insurance, about a month before you leave Japan, please report your withdrawal from the system to the municipal office, settle the account and follow all proper procedures.
- ⑥ If you are a member of the National Pension system, you may be able to request a lump sum withdrawal payment after you leave Japan. Obtain an application form at a Japan Pension Service branch office or your workplace.
- ⑦ Hand in your Resident Card to an immigration officer when you leave Japan.

III-3 Water Service

You can drink tap water in Japan, including in Osaka. After you move in to a residence, you need to apply for the water service.

1. Application

There will be a water service application card for new users located near the front door of your home or somewhere else nearby. Inform the waterworks department (bureau) of your municipality of the number on the card (this number is referred to as the Shiyosha Bango). Subsequent to you contacting the waterworks department (bureau), one of their employees will come to open the water line to your home. It can take up to four days from the time you apply to the time you can actually use water, so it is recommended that you apply as soon as possible. In apartment or rental housing, the building's management association or the landlord may arrange your water supply.

2. Water Rates

Water rates are comprised of a basic charge and a charge proportionate to the amount used. Usually, the water bill comes once every two months by post. Payment can be made by automatic deduction from your bank account, or by bank transfer from a financial institution or at a convenience store. This varies depending on municipality. Note that inability to pay on time may result in having your water turned off.

If there is a sewer system in your area, you will also be charged for their use. In communal housing, normally the management association includes the sewer cost in the water bill after calculating the water supply to your household.

3. Points of Concern in Winter

Water pipes can freeze or break on the coldest of winter days. On such days, it is necessary to take certain precautionary measures, such as letting a small amount of water run at night.

III-4 Electricity

1. Electricity in Japan

Electricity in Japan is provided at a stable voltage of 100 Volts. Depending on the region, the frequency can be 50Hz (in East Japan) or 60Hz (in West Japan). Incidentally, the Osaka region is 60Hz.

If you use electrics or appliances from abroad, please be aware that because of frequency differences they may have reduced quality, be unusable or break down.

2. Application for Electrical Service

In order to apply for electricity services, please call the customer service department of your nearest Kansai Electric Power Company office after you have turned on the main breaker. There are several other electricity companies you can choose from. The main breaker is usually located in an electricity distribution box (which stores all of the leakage and safety breakers necessary for safe electricity use) on the wall in the entrance way or kitchen. A contact voucher will be in either of these locations. Apply by either calling the number on the voucher or sending the attached postcard to the office noted on the voucher.

3. Payment

A monthly bill will be sent to you according to the meter-reading result. You can pay at various locations such as your local Kansai Electric Power Company office, financial institutions or convenience stores, so take the necessary steps to make payments when you receive bills. Also, you may set up automatic deduction from your bank account.

4. Notice of the Amount of Electricity Used

The diagram shows a Japanese electricity usage notice card with the following fields and labels:

III-5 Gas

1. Types of Gas

There are two types of gas: one is called city gas and is delivered by pipe to homes and buildings. The other is propane gas, which is in tanks placed near houses or other places. The equipment used differs with respect to the gas. It is very dangerous to use equipment that does not suit the gas type. Please confirm what type of gas you are using with your landlord or a local gas company.

(1) City Gas

The meter for city gas is located outside your residence. The contact phone number for a new contract is written on the meter, so when you apply for new gas service, please phone the number. When you make a phone call, you will be asked your address, name, the first day when you wish to use gas service, preferable appointment time with a worker who will visit your house, as well as other details.

Usually after you call, a gas technician visits you to open the gas line. You need to stay at home when the technician visits.

(2) Propane Gas

Even in the areas where propane gas is provided, just as with city gas, there is a tag on the meter with a contact number to call. Please dial the number when you apply for propane gas services. A fuel shop delivers the propane gas in tanks. Please note that you will not be able to use the same appliances and equipment used for city gas when using propane.

2. Gas Leakage

Gas gives off odor, so you can smell the gas when it leaks. When you suspect a gas leak, immediately turn off the gas at the main and report the suspected leak to the gas company.

III-6 Garbage

1. Garbage Disposal

Separate garbage collection is carried out in order to reduce its amount and aid recycling.

Types of garbage separation

- Burnable garbage
- Non-burnable garbage
- Newspapers, magazines, cans and PET (plastic) bottles

If you do not follow the rules or proper method regarding garbage disposal, it may cause trouble with your neighbors.

Things you should not do:

- ① Dispose of garbage on non-garbage-collection days.
- ② Dispose of garbage outside the designated area.
- ③ Dispose of garbage without sorting.

The exact rules and types of garbage to be sorted out are different depending on municipality, so we recommend asking someone at the ward office, city/town hall or even your neighbors about this. Some public offices offer explanations regarding garbage disposal rules in foreign languages.

2. How to Dispose of Other Types of Garbage

(1) Batteries, Drinking Bottles and Other Types

Batteries contain dangerous substances and require special care and technology for their disposal. Therefore, they should essentially be returned to the collection box at the store in which they were purchased. Moreover, some stores refund money on empty beer and juice/soda bottles and others, so it is recommended that you confirm this at the store when purchasing.

(2) Plastic Film Packaging

Please collect plastic containers and wrapping films in a bag and dispose of them on the designated day.

(3) Large-Sized Garbage

Furniture and appliances no longer being used (except for air-conditioners, TVs, refrigerators and washing machines: rules for these items are mentioned below) should be collected either on a designated day as “large-sized garbage” or taken away upon special request. Some municipalities may charge for collection of large-sized garbage.

(4) Air conditioners, TV sets, refrigerators, washing machines, tumble dryers

When you dispose of an air conditioner, a television, a refrigerator, a washing machine or a tumble dryer you must contact the shop you bought it from (or the shop you are going to buy a new one from) to take them away for a certain charge. Manufacturers will recycle these appliances. Municipalities do not collect them.

III-7 Daily Life

1. Manners for Living in Japan

Adapting to Japanese Society

The observance of Japanese manners and customs, as well as an understanding of the Japanese way of living will make things easier when living here. It is recommended that you gain an understanding of these little by little.

- When you have an appointment with others, you should keep to the time agreed upon. If you might be late or need to cancel, you should contact them in advance.
- Japanese people bow in many situations by bending over and lowering their head.
- It is rude to ask personal questions (regarding occupation, income, family matters etc.) if you are not very close to the person you are speaking with.
- Making a request emphatically demanding or being overly self-assertive may offend people.

Communicating with Neighbors

(1) Greetings

It is important to occasionally communicate with people in your neighborhood. Your regular greetings will help facilitate subsequent communication. In addition to this, it is also said that exchanging greetings with each other can be effective in preventing crimes in the area.

(2) Noise Complaints

In urban areas, there may be some people who are particularly sensitive to daily noises. They may not even tolerate the noise of children. You should be particularly careful if living in communal housing such as an apartment building. Generally, please refrain from making noises audible to your neighbors after 10pm. Some people work nights, and therefore spend daytime hours at home sleeping.

The structure of wooden buildings often found in Japan may transmit sound relatively easily. Therefore, even small noises you unintentionally cause can annoy your neighbors even though you believe you are being quiet. In particular, take special care and avoid using a vacuum cleaner or a washing machine late at night. When possible, avoid closing and opening doors with noise – especially late at night/very early morning.

If you are being bothered by loud noises and live in communal housing, it is suggested that you consult with the real estate agent with whom you have made a contract. If your residence is not a communal one, it is recommended to consult with a board member of the neighborhood committee or a fellow neighbor.

(3) Neighborhood Committee (Community Association)

In your local area, a local community association may hold independent activities in an effort to promote ties among neighbors, clean up public areas and prevent crimes. Participation in such activities and registering for the neighborhood committee is completely voluntary. However, if you become a member, you can easily obtain information about the administration of your local municipality, and your membership will be appreciated by your neighbors. Thus it can be beneficial to you. Furthermore, if you and your neighbors get acquainted with each other, it can be useful for crime prevention, so please join in these activities as much as possible.

(4) Information Circulation in the Community

After you join the neighborhood association, you will receive a circular notice board (“Kairanban”). The typical circular notice board contains a leaflet notice from the municipality office, which is bound to a clipboard. After you read the circular notice brought by your neighbor, please affix your hanko (personal seal) or signature on it and pass it on to the next household. If you’re unsure of whom to pass it to after you, it is probably best to ask the person who gave it to you.

(5) Cleanup activities

Some communities in towns or apartment buildings have set a day as cleanup day, where residents join a cleanup activity in public areas near their house, roads, nearby parks or other places. On these days, at least one member from each household is expected to participate in cleaning or weeding activities. You are advised not to miss participation in such cleaning events since it is a good opportunity to improve ties with your neighbors, and get to know more about those who you rarely see on a daily basis for reasons such as differences in working hours.

2. Consumer Affairs

Nowadays, consumers are purchasing products and services as well as signing agreements online, and not only at actual shops. Either way, when you subscribe to a mobile phone or Internet service, buy a car on loan, sign an agreement for a property transaction and so on, you are entering a legal contract as a consumer. Due to different business customs and language barriers, you may face trouble when buying a product or signing a contract. In such cases, you can receive information and advice from a nearby consumer center. Consumer centers are consumer advocate bodies that offer free information and advice about products and services.

III-8 When You Face Problems in Life

Systems or services below are provided for those with difficulties in their life. Please ask the welfare division of your municipality for further details. (Appendix IX-1)

(1) Local Welfare/Juvenile Support Staff

Social workers are able to provide consultation for people having trouble earning a living, elderly people living alone, bedridden elderly people, single parent families and people with disabilities. Staff also offer necessary assistance to these people in cooperation with welfare offices and related government organizations, and also give advice on issues related to children.

(2) Welfare Benefits

If you still have trouble making a living even after using up all of your property (assets) or savings, relied on other means or measures, or any support from your relatives, please consult the Public Assistance Division (hogo-ka) of your municipality. The division will offer necessary public assistance depending on the severity of the situation.

(3) Living Expenses Loan

There are loan services for families in poverty to lend funds for living expenses and also for emergency support.

IV Residency Management System • Basic Resident Registration System for Foreign Nationals • Marriage • Divorce

IV-1 Residence Card

Residence cards are issued to foreign nationals who are staying in Japan legally as mid- to long-term residents. Mid- to long-term residents eligible for residence cards are foreign nationals who do not fall under the categories below:

- ① Persons granted permission to stay three months or less
- ② Persons granted “Temporary Visitor” status
- ③ Persons granted “Diplomat” or “Official” status
- ④ Persons recognized by Ministry of Justice ordinance as equivalent to the foreign nationals listed above
- ⑤ Special Permanent Residents
- ⑥ Persons with no residence status

1. Issuance of Residence Card

A residence card is issued when a foreign national has been granted landing permission for the first time, when an application for change of status has been approved, or when an application for renewal of the period of stay has been approved.

Card-holders must have their residence card on them at all times. Requests from police or other officials to see the card must be obeyed. Those aged under sixteen, however, are exempted from carrying it at all times.

2. Procedures at Local Municipalities

Residence cards can be issued at Kansai International Airport, Narita International Airport, Haneda International Airport, Central Japan International Airport, New Chitose Airport, Hiroshima Airport, or Fukuoka Airport to those who have been granted landing permission, namely mid- to long-term residents. If you enter Japan through any other air or sea port, your residence card will be mailed to you after you register your new address at the local municipality where you reside.

Your residence card includes a facial photograph and the following information: your name, nationality or region of origin, date of birth, gender, address, residence status, status expiration date, any restrictions on employment, or permission to engage in activities other than those permitted, if applicable. Address registration procedures must be completed at your local municipality office.

When you move into a new town, submit a "Moving-out Notice" to the town/city hall of your previous municipality, and submit a "Moving-in Notice" to the town/city hall of your new municipality within 14 days of moving. If you have your change of address registered on your residence card when you submit your "Moving-out" and "Moving-in Notices," there is no need to notify the nearest Regional Immigration Bureau of your change of address.

3. Procedures at Administrative Office of Regional Immigration Bureau

(1) Notification of Changes

If there has been any change to your name, nationality/region, date of birth, or gender, these changes should be reported directly to your Regional Immigration Bureau within 14 days. You will then receive a new resident card. If your status permits you to work, such as “Engineer/Specialist in Humanities/ International Services”, or to study, such as “Student,” and your affiliated organization (employer, school, etc.) changes, you can either notify your local Regional Immigration Bureau directly within 14 days, or you can notify the Tokyo Regional Immigration Bureau (*) by mail. If your status is “Dependent” or “Spouse of Japanese National,” and your spouse dies or you get divorced, this change should also be reported within 14 days.

(*) Address:

Tokyo Regional Immigration Bureau, Immigration Control Information Division, Notification Desk
5-5-30 Konan, Minato Ward, Tokyo 108-8255

URL <https://www.ens-immi.moj.go.jp/NA01/NAA01S/NAA01STransfer>

(2) Reissuance of Residence Cards

If your residence card is lost or has been stolen, you should apply and submit proof of loss documentation from the Police or Fire Department within 14 days to your Regional Immigration Bureau to have it reissued.

(3) Resident Card Renewal for Permanent Residents

Permanent residents age sixteen or over, or foreign residents with “Highly Skilled Professional (ii)” residence status can apply to renew the validity period of their residence cards two months before the expiry date, while those under sixteen can apply to renew the validity period up to six months before their sixteenth birthday. The resident cards of all non-permanent mid- to long-term residents age sixteen or over remain valid until the expiry date of their periods of stay.

4. The Basic Resident Registration Law Applicable to Foreign Residents

Foreign residents are included in the Basic Resident Registration System. Certificates of Residence for foreign nationals will include the holders' names, birthdates, genders, and addresses, as well as information such as the name of the head of the household, nationality/region, status, and period of stay. Although resident cards will not list nicknames or aliases, these can be included in Certificates of Residence.-A copy of the Certificate of Residence can be issued for foreign residents.

Foreign nationals whose period of stay is longer than three months and who have addresses in Japan are eligible for Certificates of Residence. Mid- to long-term residents, such as those listed below, will have Certificates of Residence.

1. Mid- to long-term residents
2. Special permanent residents
3. Those whose status is "Temporary Refuge" or "Provisional Stay"
4. Those who have acquired provisional status of residence through birth or loss of Japanese nationality

If a child has been born to foreign parents (i.e. does not have Japanese citizenship), the local municipality must be notified of his or her birth within 14 days. This procedure will enable the municipality to issue a Certificate of Residence for the baby, who has acquired provisional status of residence by birth. If the baby will remain in Japan for more than 60 days after birth, his or her guardian(s) must apply at the Regional Immigration Bureau for residence status for the baby within 30 days of his or her birth. If the baby is granted residence status as a mid- or long-term resident, the Regional Immigration Bureau will issue a resident card for the baby.

5. Individual Number System

Individual number, popularly called My Number, is a 12-digit identification number issued to all residents who have completed their resident registration in Japan. You will be given your personalized number for social security, taxation and disaster prevention measures during your stay in Japan. In principle, this number will remain the same for your whole residence in Japan. An individual number notification will be sent out to your official address by registered mail in a couple of weeks after your resident certificate is created for the first time in Japan. You may apply for your My Number Card online via your PC or smart phone, by mailing a handwritten application, or by using an instant ID photo booth that is set up in your area and is compatible with the My Number application function.

Within 14 days after your address, name, or other vital information changes, you will need to have the change reflected in your My Number Card at your city hall or ward office. Also, when your resident status is changed or renewed, you need to have your My Number Card updated within 14 days. You can apply for this procedure 3 months before the expiration date written on your card.

IV-2 Necessary Procedures for Residence in Japan

1. Reentry Permit (When you temporarily leave Japan)

When temporarily leaving Japan within the validity period of your visa, you may obtain a reentry permit in order to enter Japan upon your return. The permit is valid for up to five years (but it cannot exceed your period of stay in Japan) and is available in single and multiple reentry forms. However, if your visa status is short-term, you are not eligible to obtain a reentry permit. The following documents are required to apply:

- ① Application for reentry permit (This can be found at the reception desk of your local Regional Immigration Bureau.)
- ② Residence Card (Appendix IV-1)
- ③ Passport
- ④ 3,000 yen revenue stamp (for single reentry permits), 6,000 yen revenue stamp (for multiple reentry permits)

Reentry permits are usually issued on the day you apply. Applications in Osaka Prefecture are accepted at the Osaka Regional Immigration Bureau.

The new Special Reentry Permit System allows foreign holders of valid passports and Residence Cards to reenter Japan without applying for a reentry permit, provided the foreign resident is returning to Japan within one year of departure and will resume his or her previous activities in Japan. In order to use this system, please present your residence card to Immigration when you depart from Japan.

2. Extension of Period of Stay

There is a time limit to the length of stay you have been permitted to stay in Japan. If you wish to extend this stay to continue the same activity you are currently engaged in, you must apply for renewal and obtain a permit. Applications can be made up to three months before the expiration of your current period of stay. The following documents are required:

- ① Application Form for extending your period of stay (This can be found at the receptionist's desk in your local Regional Immigration Bureau.)
- ② Passport
- ③ Residence Card
- ④ Documents that verify your activities in Japan, past, present and future (planned). (We recommend that you inquire in regard to the required documents at the Immigration General Information Center (Appendix IX-2) as they differ with each status. The Ministry of Justice Immigration Services Agency of Japan also provides information on its homepage.)
- ⑤ Photo

Permit

Whether you are approved to remain in Japan or not will be determined by reviewing the documents you submit. The fact that a decision regarding your status is pending will be recorded on the back of your Residence Card when you apply. If your application is accepted, you will be issued a new Residence Card if you are a Mid- or Long-Term Resident.

3. Changing Residential Status from Current Permit Status

If you have a valid residence status, but you start an activity categorized as requiring a different type of residence status, you need to apply for a change in your status of residence. Under this system, you can change your residence status to a different category without leaving Japan (even temporarily). Please apply after the things requiring you to change your residence status have happened and before your current permit expires.

Required documents differ depending on which status of residence you apply for, so please ask the Immigration General Information Center. For further information, see the Immigration Bureau website:

URL https://www.moj.go.jp/isa/applications/procedures/16-2.html

4. Permission to Engage in Activities Other Than Those Permitted by Your Current Status of Residence

If you engage in any work not included in the activities permitted by your current status of residence, it will be regarded as illegal employment. For example, when an international student wishes to work parttime, s/he must apply for “Permission to Engage in Activities Other Than Those Permitted by Current Status of Residence”. Before engaging in a full or part time job, please obtain permission from the Regional Immigration Bureau.

If you are arriving in Japan with “Student” status, it is possible for you to apply for Permission to Engage in Activities Other Than Those Permitted by Current Status of Residence when you land at the airport (except for those whose stay will not exceed three months).

Necessary Documents

- ① Application form for “Permission to Engage in Activities Other Than Those Permitted by Current Status of Residence”
- ② Residence Card
- ③ Passport
- ④ Document that provides proof of your planned activity

IV-3 Marriage

1. Marriage between a Japanese and a Foreign National

When a Japanese and foreign national marry in Japan, they register their marriage by submitting a form to the local municipality office. The Japanese national has to meet the conditions required by the Japanese law, and the foreign national has to meet the conditions required by their country of origin. The documents below are required.

- ① Copy or abstract of family register (for Japanese)
- ② Passport (proof of nationality)
- ③ Certificate of legal capacity to marry or an equivalent document issued by the embassy or consulate of the country of origin. (Translation with the translator's name, address and stamped hanko [personal seal] must be attached to non-Japanese documents.)
- ④ Notification of Marriage (These are available at the local municipality office. In order to register your marriage, you must have the seals of two witnesses who are 20 years of age or older. In addition, the notification must be written in Japanese.)

Marriages registered in Japan should be reported to the foreign national's countries of origin. To do that, a "Certificate of Acceptance of Marriage" is required, so please ask the municipality where you register your marriage to issue it. Each country requires different procedures, so please check with the embassy or consulate of the country of origin. (Appendix IX-5)

A marriage is valid from the day it is registered.

2. Marriage between Foreign Nationals

It is possible, under certain conditions, for two foreign nationals to register their marriage bound by Japanese law. However, please note that the marriage contracted in Japan might not be immediately valid in the country of origin. For further information about the procedures for marriage registration, please check with your embassy or consulate (Appendix IX-5) and your municipality office in Japan (Appendix IX-1) where you intend to register your marriage.

3. Changing Resident Status

If you change your residence status to "Spouse of a Japanese National" after marrying a Japanese citizen, or if you switch to spouse visa because of marriage to another foreign national, please contact the Immigration Information Center Osaka for information. (Appendix IX-2)

4. Changing the Information on Your Residence Card

If you change your name because of marriage, you must submit notification of the change(s) to the Regional Immigration Bureau, and all other changes, such as your address or any other information, should be reported to your local municipality office (Appendix IX-1).

5. Other Changes

After you get married, applications and procedures, etc. for taxes, pension, Health Insurance, and benefits from your employer may be treated differently. Therefore, please check with the person in charge of human resources (personnel) in your company.

IV-4 Divorce

Legal procedures concerning divorce in international marriages can be complicated. Even if the divorce is recognized according to the procedures undertaken in Japan, it may be not recognized as a valid divorce in your native country. Here, we provide only a general explanation regarding the procedures for divorce under Japanese law.

1. When You Divorce

If a married couple in Japan agrees to divorce, they can do so under Japanese law as long as at least one of them is a Japanese national living in Japan. Japanese law stipulates four divorce scenarios: “Divorce by Mutual Consent” by which a notification of divorce is submitted, accepted, and deemed legitimate based on the agreement between the two; “Mediated divorce” “Judicial divorce” and “Adjudicated divorce”. The latter three are brought about through the involvement of family court. If you have divorced in Japan, but have not yet undertaken divorce procedures under the law of your native country, you are considered as still married in your native country, which may cause various problems. Thus, it is important to undertake procedures to get divorced in your native country as well.

When both husband and wife are non-Japanese, the requirements and necessary procedures for divorce may be different, depending on their country of origin. Such couples are advised to inquire about the proper procedures at their respective embassy/embassies or consulate(s) in Japan (Appendix IX-5).

2. When You Do Not Consent to a Divorce

If your (Japanese) spouse submits a signed divorce notification to the authorities without your consent, you may repeal its legal effect by submitting a non-acceptance request to the municipality office where your (Japanese) spouse’s permanent or temporary domicile has been registered. Once you submit this request, unless you agree to “divorce by consent,” you will not be forced to divorce by your spouse without mediation or other formal legal procedures. However, this system does not apply when both parties in the marriage are foreign nationals.

3. Residence Status after Divorce

If you are residing in Japan with the status of “Spouse of a Japanese National,” “Spouse of a Permanent Resident,” or “Dependent,” you need to report your divorce to your Regional Immigration Bureau within 14 days.

A person residing in Japan with the status of “Spouse of a Japanese National,” “Spouse of a Permanent Resident,” or “Dependent,” may have their status revoked if they fail to undertake activities as a spouse for more than six months. Failure to change one’s residence status can make it no longer permissible to continue staying in Japan. Thus, if you have any concerns, it is recommended that you make inquiries at consultation services or at the Immigration General Information Center (Appendix IX-2).

4. Changing Items in Your Resident Registration

If you change your name after a divorce, you need to submit a notification to your Regional Immigration Bureau, while changes in your address should be reported to your local municipality office (Appendix IX-1).

IV-5 Death

1. Death Notification

In the event that a foreign national dies in Japan, the same legal procedures are required as for Japanese citizens: notification must be submitted to the local municipality office no later than seven days after confirmation of the death. Only a licensed physician or medical examiner may validly confirm death in Japan, whatever the case may be.

If you are to report the death of a foreign national, you need to have a physician confirm the death and prepare a death certificate. The death certificate should be submitted to the authorities of the municipality where the death occurred or where you reside. You should return the deceased's resident card to the Regional Immigration Bureau by mail or in person, or send it to the Tokyo Regional Immigration Bureau(*) Also, please perform any procedures required by the deceased's country of origin. The required procedures may differ depending on the country, so please check with the relevant embassy or consulate in Japan. (Appendix IX-5).

(*) Mail resident card to: Tokyo Regional Immigration Bureau, Odaiba Office
9F, Godo-chosha, Tokyo Wangan
2-7-11 Oume, Koto-Ward, Tokyo 135-0064

2. Burial

In densely populated Osaka Prefecture, there are few cemeteries for burial. Consult the respective consulate or equivalent (Appendix IX-5) if the deceased person's body is not allowed to be cremated and must be buried under the earth due to his/her religion, beliefs or other customs, or if you plan to transfer the body to his/her native country.

V Transportation

V-1 Public Transportation

1. Trains (JR • Private Railways • Subway)

You can purchase tickets at automatic ticket machines. From the price chart, check the price of the journey to your destination before buying tickets. If you buy the wrong (fare amount) ticket, ask a station staff person to change it before you go through the ticket gate. Also, other services below are available:

- ICOCA: Pre-paid (IC) card issued by West Japan Railway Company. If you charge the card before boarding the train, you can use it for other train or bus services across Japan wherever there is an IC card sign. This includes those covered by the PITAPA services as described below.
- PITAPA: Post-pay (IC) card for private railway, subway and bus services in Kansai Area.
- Commuter passes: You can purchase a pass for a specific route in advance at a discounted price, for a period of 1, 3 or 6 months.

2. Buses on Regular Routes

There are no extra staff on regular city/municipality (public) buses. Please check the destination of the bus before you get on. The destination is displayed above the bus windows on the front and rear (in Japanese). Fare is either flat-rate or changed depending on distance. If a flat-fare system is not applied, you need to receive a ticket with a number when you get on board. Please check the number on the ticket and the fare chart, and then deposit the fare into the fare collection box when you get off. Please carry coins for the bus fare. When you pay with an IC card, touch with your IC card the card reader installed near the bus door after getting on, and another card reader next to the farebox before getting off. When you want to get off, push one of the stop buttons (near seats etc.) after the announcement of the next stop is made.

3. Taxis

When hailing a taxi, signal the driver by raising your hand. Available taxis will display a red vacancy (空車 (“Kusha”)) sign in front. Hail a taxi where the driver can safely pull over and park. There are places to board taxis in front of train stations. When you get in a taxi, clearly tell the driver your destination. It is convenient to have a note or map to the destination.

Fares are determined by distance and time of the ride. Be careful about using ¥5,000 or ¥10,000 bills, because drivers may not have change. Taxi dispatch apps are a convenient tool for hailing a taxi with your smartphone. You can order a taxi to pick you up at and take you to designated places, and even make a payment in advance through the app. Some apps are available in multiple languages.

V-2 Bicycles

1. Purchasing a Bicycle

Bicycles can usually be purchased at bicycle shops or home improvement stores. You are required to register your bicycle as a safeguard against theft at the store you bought it from. Registration costs 600 yen per bicycle.

2. Where to Store Your Bicycle

It is always a good idea to park your bicycle in places where it will not impede the flow of pedestrians. There are particular areas in the vicinities of stations where by ordinance, bicycles cannot be left. When you leave your bicycle in such places, it makes it difficult for people including the elderly and visually impaired to use the station.

If you disobey the ordinance, your bicycle will be impounded to a specified storage facility. If this happens, you may have to pay a charge for the storage/transfer to get your bicycle back. Your bicycle is stored for a limited period from the date of transfer (after that it is legally no longer yours), so please collect your bicycle during that period. If your bicycle is transferred to such a storage facility, tell the municipal office when and from where your bicycle was removed and ask for the place of bicycle collection, any fees and opening hours for reclaiming it. (Appendix IX-1)

3. When Your Bicycle Has Been Stolen

If your bicycle has been stolen, report it to your nearest police box (kouban). When the police find your stolen bicycle, they will contact you. It's a good idea to write your address and name on your bicycle.

4. Do Not Ride Discarded Bicycles

Though a bicycle may seem to have been discarded, it could have just been left on the road, etc. after being stolen by someone. If it has been reported as stolen and you are riding it, you could get into trouble. Thus, it is best that you do not ride a seemingly discarded bicycle.

5. Traffic Rules

Bicycles are to be ridden on the left side of the roadway. Bicycle riders must obey traffic signals along with cars. Riding a bicycle while intoxicated is prohibited, and so is double riding (except an adult at the age of 16 or over riding with an infant under 6 years old in a proper child seat).

Basically, bicycles should not be ridden on sidewalks except for those showing signs stating it is allowed. However, there are locations where it may be dangerous to ride a bicycle on the road, and in such places bicycles are allowed to be ridden on sidewalks. In that case, ride away from the center of the sidewalk and stay on the edge of the sidewalk, near the side of the road. If you will obstruct pedestrians, stop or get off the bicycle.

Always use your light when riding at night. In Osaka prefecture, it is prohibited to use a mobile phone while riding on a bicycle.

Osaka Prefecture passed an ordinance requiring bicycle owners to have liability insurance, which came into effect on July 1, 2016. Also, in accordance with a partial revision of the Road Traffic Law in April 2023, it has become mandatory for all bicycle riders to make their best effort to wear a helmet.

V-3 Driver's License

To operate an automobile or motorcycle in Japan, a driver's license is required. When you drive, you must carry your driver's license and keep the vehicle inspection certificate in the car.

1. International License

You can drive in Japan with a valid international driver's license, issued by a country that ratified the Geneva Convention. However, the period of validity is only for a year from arrival in Japan or the valid period of the international license, whichever comes first. You cannot renew your international license in Japan. If you reside in Japan for a year or longer, please switch to a Japanese license.

2. Converting Your Foreign License to a Japanese Driver's License

If you have a valid license in another country and remained in that country more than 3 months in total since obtaining the license (proof of duration of stay, generally, your passport with official departure and entry stamps or other evidence is required), you can obtain an equivalent (same classes of vehicle for the Japanese version as noted on your foreign license, such as "passenger car," or "motorcycle," etc.) Japanese license and be exempted from the actual driving test and part of the required written driver's license test.

Applications can be made at the Public Safety Commission managing the area where you live or stay. In Osaka, the Kadoma Drivers License Examination Office and the Komyoike Drivers License Examination Office are authorized. Necessary procedures are screening documents and oral questions, then your knowledge and driving technique is checked. After that, if they confirm your competency as a driver, you may be exempted from the practical driving test and much of the written driving license test.

Required Items:

1. Driver's license from another country. (If the date of issue is not noted, you will need to prove your driving history)
2. Photocopy of both sides of the foreign driver's license.
3. Proof of translation of the foreign driver's license written in Japanese. (Available at the embassy or consulate in Japan of the country issuing the driver's license, or The Japan Automobile Federation (JAF))
<Osaka Branch, Kansai Headquarters, The Japan Automobile Federation (JAF)
☎072-645-1300>
4. Passport (If you have renewed it recently, bring your old passport as well)
5. Photocopy of passport
6. Photocopy of your Certificate of Proof of Residence, with your nationality listed on it (If you are not eligible to register as a Resident under the Basic Resident Registration Law, a photocopy of your passport and documents proving that you are staying at the address you are using to apply) .
7. A photograph (must be taken within 6 months of application for Japanese driver's license. 3 cm height x 2.4 cm width. It must be a head and shoulders photo with no cap or hat. You must be facing the camera and the photo should be on a plain background.)
8. Pens (black or blue ball point pen)
9. Processing fee

Additional documents may be required.

For the language used in the knowledge assessment examination, you can choose from Japanese, English, Korean, Chinese, Spanish, Portuguese, Persian, Russian, Tagalog, Thai and Vietnamese. For details, contact either the Kadoma Drivers License Examination Office or the Komyoike Drivers License Examination Office.

3. Obtaining a New Japanese Driver's License

There are two ways to obtain a new driver's license in Japan (not converted from a foreign nation's license):

- At a driver's license examination office, pay the required fees, take a practical and written examination as well as an aptitude test and a vision test. Upon completion of the test and examination you will also be subjected to a lecture for new drivers. Written examinations in English, Chinese and Portuguese are available.

- Attend a driving school, pass the school's test and then take the official test, generally just the written examination, aptitude test, and vision test at the Drivers License Examination Office. The cost for driving school is generally between 200,000 and 300,000 yen.

VI Pregnancy, Child Birth, Child Rearing and Education

VI-1 Pregnancy and Child Birth

1. When Pregnant

Notify your municipality that you are pregnant and planning to give birth, and you will be given a Maternal and Child Health Handbook. This handbook will serve as an important record of various items for pregnancy, child birth, and necessary vaccinations for seven years after birth. Some municipalities have translated the handbook for expectant mothers into foreign languages.

English, Chinese, Portuguese, Spanish, Korean, Thai, Indonesian, Filipino and Vietnamese translated versions of the Maternal and Child Health Handbook (issued by the Mothers' and Children's Welfare Association Public Interest Inc. Foundation) can be purchased by mail from the organization below.

Mothers' and Children's Welfare Association Public Interest Inc. Foundation

URL <https://www.mcfh.or.jp>

 Main Office: 03-4334-1151, West Japan Office: 06-6941-4651

2. Costs

Normal pregnancies/child deliveries are not classified as illnesses and thus are not covered by health insurance. Instead, the health insurance system provides expecting families with a fixed amount of money, approximately 500,000 yen. It is common for mothers who have given birth in Japan to be required to stay in the hospital for four to five days, and the costs involved in hospital admission generally run from 400,000 to 500,000 Yen. This figure differs depending on the hospital. The Lump-Sum Allowance for Childbirth and Child Care provided by health insurance system is paid directly to the medical institution at the request of either an insured person or a hospital. This system eliminates the need to pay the entire childbirth expense to your hospital. Applications are made at your local municipality office for the provision of the costs involved in childbirth for those with National Health Insurance coverage. (Appendix Page 62 IX-1)

For women who cannot deliver their babies in a hospital for financial reasons, there is a system called "Child Birth Support" that aids in admission to a Child Birth Support facility where expectant mothers can deliver their babies without worry about costs and receive support for the costs of child birth. For details, inquire with the Welfare Department or Health and Welfare Center in your municipality. Self payment may be required, depending upon your income.

3. Assistance during Pregnancy

The expectant mother must visit the hospital on a regular basis during her pregnancy. Depending on the municipality, health examinations for expectant mothers are offered free of charge. Please inquire at your local public office or municipal medical health center. (Appendix IX-3)

4. Child Birth

(1) Notification of Birth

When a child is born, the responsible doctor or midwife will issue a "Birth Certificate". Even when both parents are non-Japanese, a "Notification of Birth" should still be submitted to the municipality office within 14 days of the birth. Foreign babies born in Japan automatically hold provisional status of residence. If the baby is a foreign national, please hand in a "Certificate of Acceptance of Notification of Birth" issued by the municipality office to the embassy or consulate of the baby's nationality in Japan.

(2) Child without Japanese Nationality

If a new born baby's parents are foreign nationals and the baby does not have Japanese nationality, an application of "Acquiring Resident Status" should be made at the Regional Immigration Bureau within 30 days.

VI-2 Day-care

1. Day-care in Japan

Day-care is available in three forms in Japan; (1) Day-care centers (Hoikusho) certified by the local government (for infants whom the government administration has certified as eligible due to receiving insufficient care), (2) Uncertified day-care facilities that are run independently, and (3) Day-care services operated by private companies.

Certified day-care centers can be public or private. Generally, day-care centers do not operate in the early morning or late evening, nor do they offer overnight, Sunday or holiday service.

Applications are generally made at facilities in the respective municipality within which the applicant resides, and, in principle, children are permitted to go to day-care centers within their own area or district. Please inquire at the division in charge of day-care at the public office in your municipality for information on matters such as how to apply, the period for applications and the cost of day-care.

Additionally, a relatively new type of childcare facility called “Certified center for early childhood education and care” is available, irrespective of parents’ work engagement. These centers provide both education and childcare to preschool children aged 0 and older. For information about admission, call the center you wish to send your child to or the day care section of your city hall.

2. Private Services

There are various types of day-care services that are run by the private sector including those run by volunteers with their own children and others operated by private companies. There are also some companies or organizations that offer day-care in the evening and on holidays or even dispatch babysitters to the home. Applications are by the parents of children in need of day-care and are made to the respective companies or organizations directly. You can apply to day-care centers outside of your municipality. Feel free to inquire at these companies or organizations for information about these services.

3. Family Support Center

Some municipalities offer a family support center program. Under this program, each member helps mutually, providing childcare before or after kindergarten or day-care center hours, sending or collecting children to and from day-care facilities childcare for a short amount of time, as emergency help when parents/guardians of children have urgent matters to attend to. Please inquire at your municipality office for further details. (Appendix IX-1)

4. Policies to make preschool education and day-care services free

Since October 2019, Japan has started to offer free education at all authorized preschools including kindergartens, nursery schools and certified child center for children aged between 3 and 5. Children 2 years old and under from financially struggling households have also been given free day care services. As for kindergartens, a monthly fee cap of ¥25,700 has been set. Fees of transportation, food and events remain be paid by parents (though there are exceptions to this). For more information, please inquire at your municipality office. (Appendix IX-1)

5. Child Benefits System

Child benefits shall be provided to parents/guardians of children who will be up to age 15 until the March 31 following their 15th birthday (before completing their junior high school). However, people earning more than a certain amount will not receive this benefit. Instead, a monthly exceptional allowance of 5,000 yen per child will be paid. For details, please inquire at your local municipal office. (Appendix IX-1).

VI-3 Health and Medical Care for Infants

1. Medical Care for Children

Medical care for children is at an extremely high level as Japan's infant mortality rate is one of the lowest in the world. There are children's hospitals; however, it is recommended that you initially take children to your nearest pediatrician.

2. Vaccinations

Vaccinations are offered for infants and young children as per the table below. Municipalities determine matters such as the date and location of vaccinations. If the set conditions are met, vaccinations are essentially free of charge and the records of each vaccination are documented in the Maternal and Child Health Handbook. For more details, direct inquiries to facilities such as municipal (Public) health centers. (Appendix IX-3)

List of Vaccinations

Vaccinations	Age for Vaccination
DPT Vaccine: (Diphtheria, Pertussis, Tetanus) + Polio	Age over 3 months and under 90 months old
DT Vaccine (Diphtheria, Tetanus)	Age over 11 and under 13 years old
BCG	Under 12 months old
MR2 (Measles, Rubella)	Age over 12 months and under 24 months old (initial vaccination) For 5 - 6 year-olds, one year prior to starting elementary school (2 nd vaccination)

※1The actual times/periods for vaccinations differ for each municipality. For more details, refer to the Maternal and Child Health Handbook or enquire at your municipal health center. (Appendix IX-3)

※2 Vaccinations other than these require a fee (influenza, mumps, etc.), thus it is recommended that you consult at your health care facility of choice.

3. Health Examinations (Kenkoshindan)

Municipalities provide free health examinations. The exact time for examinations and procedures differ with respect to the municipality, so for more details, inquire at your local municipal public health center. A reminder will be sent by mail from your local municipality.

4. Health Care Costs for Infants

- (1) Health Care Assistance for Infants and Children
Health care costs for children are covered by the health insurance of the parent/guardian. Usually, 20% of the total costs incurred are charged as self-pay. Some municipalities offer assistance towards part of health care costs for infants and children. For more details, inquire at your municipality's Child Welfare and Health, Hygiene, National Health Insurance or other section. (Appendix IX-1)

- (2) Other Financial Assistance
There are systems by which health care costs for premature infants, children with physical disabilities, and those with certain chronic illnesses among other similar conditions are covered at public expense. Inquire at a public health center (Appendix IX-3) or welfare office (Appendix IX-1) for more details.

VI-4 Japanese Education System

1. Compulsory Education

Education in Japan is compulsory for nine years, from elementary school through junior high school. School expenses (including textbooks) in that period are free of charge and children must attend a predetermined public school. However, other expenses such as for additional material needed in lessons and for school trips must be self-paid.

<School Calendar>

April	Beginning of School Year
Late July - End of August	Summer Vacation
Around new year	Winter Vacation (about 2 weeks)
March	End of the term – Spring Vacation

Children with Japanese nationality will be sent a notice from the local school board informing them of the school they are to attend and the date of their first day of school. They will enter the school stated on the notice on the designated date.

You will receive a similar notification upon sending a request to the local board of education for a child of a foreign nationality to attend a Japanese public school (when they begin primary education.). Also, those who have completed their resident registration and continuously live in Osaka Prefecture will be sent a notice about school from the local school board when their children reach the age for primary education. Please hand in the notification after entering the necessary information. It is possible to enter a school in the middle of the school year. Consult with the local municipality's board of education for more details.

There are also private elementary schools and junior high schools; however, these require separate self-paid fees for courses. Inquire at schools of interest for details. Most private schools require children to take an entrance examination.

2. Subsequent Education

Once compulsory education is completed, children may go to high school. There are various types of high schools in Japan including "academic" high schools that offer a wide variety of courses and other types, including "technical/vocational" institutions that primarily offer learning in one area of specialty.

Direct inquiries related to entrance into prefectural and municipal high schools to the High School Education section in your prefecture or municipality. Inquiries into private high school education should be directed to the specific school.

In Osaka, there are two systems that subsidize high school tuition – the nationally financed system called the "high school tuition support fund" and the Osaka Prefecture-funded "private high school tuition subsidiary aid." Tuition for both public and private high schools will be virtually kept free for a student whose family's annual income is below a determined amount.

3. Supporting Children/Students at School

The Osaka Prefectural Agency of Education has established the website called "School Life Support for Students Returning or Moving to Japan from Abroad" to provide information for foreign children and students about their school lives.

URL <https://www.pref.osaka.lg.jp/shochugakko/kikokutoniti-sapo/>

Content: Entering school, future course guidance

Languages: Japanese, Chinese, Korean, Portuguese, Spanish, Vietnamese, English, Indonesian, Filipino, Thai, Russian, Nepali, Urdu, Arabic and Malay

4. Lunches (Bento)

At junior high schools where lunch is not provided, children are generally required to bring food from home. This is referred to as a “bento” (lunch box). When a child cannot bring their lunch, they can do several things such as buying bread and other food in the school or from a shop. However, because rules differ with respect to school policies it is recommended that you consult with the child's teacher.

5. School Expense Benefit (allowance)

This system aims to support children during their compulsory schooling to avoid problems due to financial hardship. Necessary goods for study, outside school activities and school trip costs will be covered by the benefit (allowance). Consult with school or the local municipality's board of education for details.

VIII Labor, Taxes and Sending Money Overseas

VIII-1 Looking for Work

1. Job-hunting

“Hello Work” (Public Employment Security Offices, or “Shokugyo Anteisho” also referred to as “Shoku-an”)

Public Employment Security Offices (“Hello Work”) in Japan are part of a public system that offers job consultation and introduces work along with many services offered free of charge. If a foreign national has permission to work (work visa, spouse visa with work permission, permanent resident status, etc.) in Japan, they can also take advantage of services at these offices.

At the Osaka Employment Service Center for Foreigners (in Umeda) and the Employment Service Corner for Foreigners (in Sakai) interpreting services are available. (Portuguese, Spanish and Chinese and *English languages) (Appendix IX-4)

URL https://jsite.mhlw.go.jp/osaka-foreigner/

*An English interpreter is only available at the Osaka Employment Service Center for Foreigners

Recruitment Magazines and others

In addition, private job openings appear in newspapers, recruitment magazines and other places. There are similar notices in other sources such as newspapers, magazines and websites published in foreign languages.

2. International Students Searching for Work After Graduation

An international student who wishes to seek employment in Japan after graduating must change their student status to a status that enables them to work in Japan. The Osaka Employment Service Center for Foreigners offers job and status consultations, job-hunting guidance and advice on other related matters.

VIII-2 Employment

1. Labor Conditions

In Japan, the Labor Standards Law regulates the minimum required labor conditions. There are no differences in labor conditions with respect to nationality, beliefs or social status. When starting a new job, your employer must clearly state the labor conditions. According to the law, the employer must clearly identify the following items in writing:

- (1) Duration of Contract
- (2) Where to report for work and what the job consists of
- (3) Daily work start and finish, break times, holidays, vacations, extra work (overtime), etc.
- (4) Statement of compensation (salary) and the manner in which wages are calculated and paid
- (5) Until what day of each month wages are calculated and which day they are paid
- (6) Matters concerning retirement and reasons for dismissal, etc.

In addition, bonuses and retirement allowance must be stated, if applicable. For part-time employees, items such as “whether wages will rise”, “whether retirement allowance will be paid” and “whether bonus will be paid” must be stated.

2. Labor Standards

The following standards concerning labor exist:

- ① Labor Standards Law
 - a) Hiring Restrictions
When employees become injured or become ill on the job, the employer must not dismiss them while they are absent from work to undergo treatment or for 30 days following the onset of the injury or illness. However, when the employer compensates in a legal manner, these restrictions do not apply.
 - b) Prior Informing of Dismissal
The employer must inform the employee at least 30 days in advance that s/he will be dismissed from his/her job.
 - c) Holiday Pay
When an employer requires an employee to take time off, the employee is entitled to receive at least 60% of their average wage.
 - d) Working Hours
As a general rule, working hours, excluding breaks, must not exceed eight hours per day or 40 hours per week. Any labor performed outside of these hours deems the employee eligible to receive overtime wages.
- ② Minimum Wage Law
The minimum wage is determined in regards to the respective job, industry and region.

3. Labor Standards Inspection Office

The Labor Standard Inspection Office conducts guidance and supervision to determine whether the Labor Standards Law is being adhered to. In the event of problems related to labor conditions or accidents on the job, it is recommended that you consult with the Labor Standards Inspection Office in charge of the district of your employment. (Appendix IX-4)

4. Accidents on the Job

If the Labor Standards Inspection Office has determined that you have become ill or injured during work or as a result thereof, funds required for treatment, compensation for time off work, a disability pension, and any other ancillary costs will be reimbursed from the insurance which your employer or factory maintains (worker's compensation insurance). For details, contact the Labor Standards Inspection Office governing your company's region.

5. Consultation Services

Consultations in English, Chinese, Portuguese and Vietnamese are available concerning troubles stemming from matters such as labor conditions.

The Osaka Labor Office Foreign Worker Consultation Corner (Appendix IX-2)

Labor Hotline for foreign workers is available in English, Chinese, Portuguese, Spanish, Tagalog, Vietnamese, Burmese, Nepali, Korean, Thai, Indonesian, Cambodian (Khmer) and Mongolian. (Appendix IX-2)

6. Unemployment Insurance

If you have unemployment insurance, you are entitled to receive unemployment benefits when you become unemployed in order to stabilize your life and find a job. Please go to the “Hello Work” office that has jurisdiction over your place of residence. In principle, unemployment insurance is compulsory for businesses that employ workers.

Return to Top

VIII-3 Tax

Regardless of nationality, all persons residing in Japan must pay Japanese taxes.

1. How to Pay Your Taxes

(1) When employed by a company (income tax/prefectural tax/municipal tax):

If your employer automatically deducts tax from your salary and pays it to the tax office on your behalf, it is not necessary for you to take tax payment procedures unless you have received any other income.

(2) When not working in a company OR when working in a company or an office that does not automatically deduct taxes from your salary:

You must file a tax return and pay your income tax, prefectural tax and municipal tax according to the tax payment slip sent from the municipality every year. Moreover, if you own a company or a business, you will probably have to pay business tax.

2. Types of Taxes

(1) Income Tax

Tax returns are to be sent to the tax office if income tax is not automatically deducted from your salary (1-(2)). The tax return includes the amount of tax you must pay calculated based off of your annual salary or other income and then reports it. Tax returns must be submitted between February 16 and March 15 and also sent to the tax office in your jurisdiction. The tax office provides the required forms.

In cases in which you have paid high amounts of money, such as in the purchase of a house by loan from a bank or other institutions, expensive health care costs stemming from a disaster or serious illness, tax deductions from your annual salary might be conceded when you declare such circumstances. For details, contact your nearest tax office.

According to tax agreements between Japan and other countries, you may be subject to special regulations concerning the payment of income tax. For more details, contact the Telephone Inquiry Center (press 1 after dialing to a tax office) or your consulate. (Appendix IX-5)

※ Explanation of income tax in English

URL <https://www.nta.go.jp/english/taxes/individual/gaikoku301.htm>

(2) Prefectural and Municipal Taxes

Regardless of your nationality, those residing in Osaka Prefecture and receiving an income over a certain amount are required to pay prefectural and municipal taxes. These taxes are calculated after various deductions from your previous year's income. If you have filed a return or one has been filed for you, it is not necessary to file a prefectural or municipal tax return.

Each year, the municipality where you have lived as of January 1 levies the taxes. Those receiving a salary will have municipal tax deducted from their salary. Others will be sent a payment invoice to be paid at a bank or other institutions.

The tax rate for residents of Osaka Prefecture is 4%. A per capita charge (kintowarigaku) of 1800 yen is added on top of this. (for fiscal year 2016 to fiscal year 2023, 300 yen is also added to the per capita tax rate to carry out forest preservation measures.) The standard municipal tax rate is 6% of the taxable income, to which approximately 3500 yen is added. (specified cities have a prefectural tax rate of 2% and a municipal tax rate of 8%)

Guide to Osaka Prefectural Taxes

URL <https://www.pref.osaka.lg.jp/zei/alacarte/prefectural-taxes-e.html>

(3) Fixed Property Tax

In the event you own real estate (land or building) or depreciable assets as of January 1, you are required to pay a fixed property tax to the municipality in which the real estate is located. The tax is calculated and levied according to the appraised value of the real estate and others. You will receive a payment invoice by mail each year. Please pay accordingly at a bank or other institution.

(4) Automobile Tax, Light Vehicle Tax

If you are declared as an owner of an automobile, light vehicle (kei car) or motorbike as of April 1 by the vehicle inspection certificate, the Automobile Tax or Light Vehicle Tax is imposed. A payment invoice is sent to you in April or May every year, so please pay at a bank, a convenience store or other payment counter.

(5) Other Tax

a) Consumption tax

A 10% consumption tax is levied on the purchase of any and all goods or services. A reduced tax rate (8%) is applied to sales of some food and beverages.

b) Others

In instances such as when you acquire real estate, you are required to pay a tax for the receipt of assets.

VIII-4 Banks, Overseas Money Transfer

1. Banks

You are allowed to open a bank account if you work for a company in Japan, or have resided in Japan for at least 6 months. You will have to bring your residence card and hanko (personal seal) to the bank and enter the necessary information on the designated bank forms. You will be issued a bank passbook when you open the account. It serves as a record of your transactions and as proof that you possess a bank account. You will need your passbook and hanko when withdrawing money, but a signature will suffice for non-Japanese. If you wish, you will be issued an ATM card (cash card). It will enable you to deposit and withdraw money at an ATM without a passbook. Bank Teller services are usually only available from 9 A.M. until 3 P.M. on weekdays; however, you can make transactions at an ATM after operating hours. ATMs are also found in some convenience stores and railway stations. (Handling fees are usually higher.)

2. Post Office (Yubinkyoku)

Japan's post offices offer services similar to a bank. Anyone who has a residence card can open an account. As with banks, the Post Office also issues cards for use at ATMs. Normally, post offices allow you to deposit or send money from 9 A.M. to 4 P.M. (Excluding Year-end, New Year's, Saturdays/Sundays, and national holidays)

3. Overseas Money Transfer

Foreign remittance used to be possible only from a bank or a post office. Recently, fund transfer service providers have become an additional option. If you send money overseas through a registered fund transfer service provider, the remittance amount may have a minimum limit, but the fee is lower than that of banks or other financial institutions.

A list of some fund transfer service providers registered by financial bureaus in Japan can be found here: URL https://www.fsa.go.jp/menkyo/menkyoj/shikin_idou.pdf

Please note that not all banks offer international money sending services. From post offices, this service is only available at Japan Post Bank branches that handle overseas money transfers. You can transfer money from one account to another, and can also send cash by money order. Money orders can be issued at banks and post offices.

You are legally required to show identification such as your residence card and your individual number ("My Number") when sending money.

Another way of requesting money transfers is through your internet banking account by computer browser or smartphone application.

VIII-5 Pension

Regardless of nationality, all persons aged 20 to 59 must enter one of the pension systems, The National Pension Plan or the Employees' Pension Insurance System; and pay premiums. Employee's pension policy holders are allowed to be enrolled up until the age of 69.

1. Employee Pension Insurance

Employees aged 20 and over, working for a company with 5 or more employees, must be covered by the employee pension insurance. Even part-time workers engaged in work for 75% or longer of a regular workers' working hours and days must be insured (employees who work less than 75% of regular workers' work hours will be also insured if they meet the following requirements for part time workers*). Premiums are paid in equal shares by employer and employee, but the amount may be shifted depending on the employee's salary and bonus amounts. Premiums are paid through the employer.

- (*)
1. Work more than 20 hours per week
 2. Expected to work for more than two months
 3. Earn more than 88,000 Yen per month
 4. Are not students
 5. Work for a company employing more than 50 full-time year-round workers

2. National Pension Plan

People who are not covered by employee pension insurance must become members of the National Pension Plan. The same premium applies to all policyholders regardless of their income, and the cost to the individual is 16,520 yen per month (as of the fiscal year 2023). For those with very low income, a reduction or exemption of premium payments may be available. For details, consult with the Pension Division in your municipality.

3. Lump-sum Withdrawal Payments

Employees' Pension Insurance and the National Pension Plan have a system called Lump-sum Withdrawal Payments. If a foreign national became a policyholder of a pension plan while in Japan and paid premiums for 6 months or longer, and then leaves Japan, if s/he applies for the payment according to necessary procedures no later than 2 years after leaving Japan, a partial lump-sum payment (part of the self-paid amount only) is paid to the foreign national. Those who have contributed to the pension system for 10 year or longer, however, are not entitled to Lump-sum withdrawal payment. (Instead, they will be eligible to receive an old-age pension when they reach pension age.) For details, consult with the Pension Division in your municipality or the Japan Pension Service Branch Offices and Pension Consultation Centers. (Appendix IX-1)
